CONTINUITY CHECK — AT A GLANCE

- ☑ Liora is stable in the hospital. Consent remains limited.
- ☑ The memory cache is gone. The receipt outside the brain persists.
- ☑ Brokered trust infrastructure is confirmed at a high level.
- ☑ Children of Glass connection is visual similarity only.
- ☑ Halcyon preservation order is active. No action beyond scope.
- ☑ Nico remains restricted. He is learning lawful language and restraint.

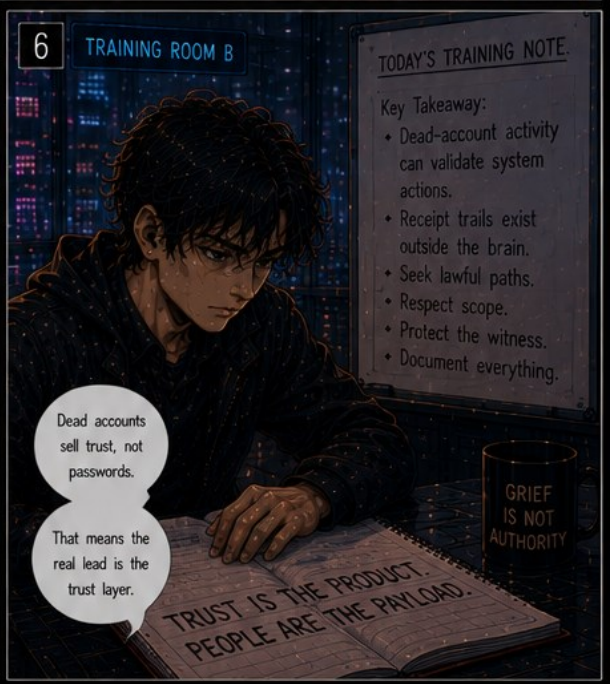

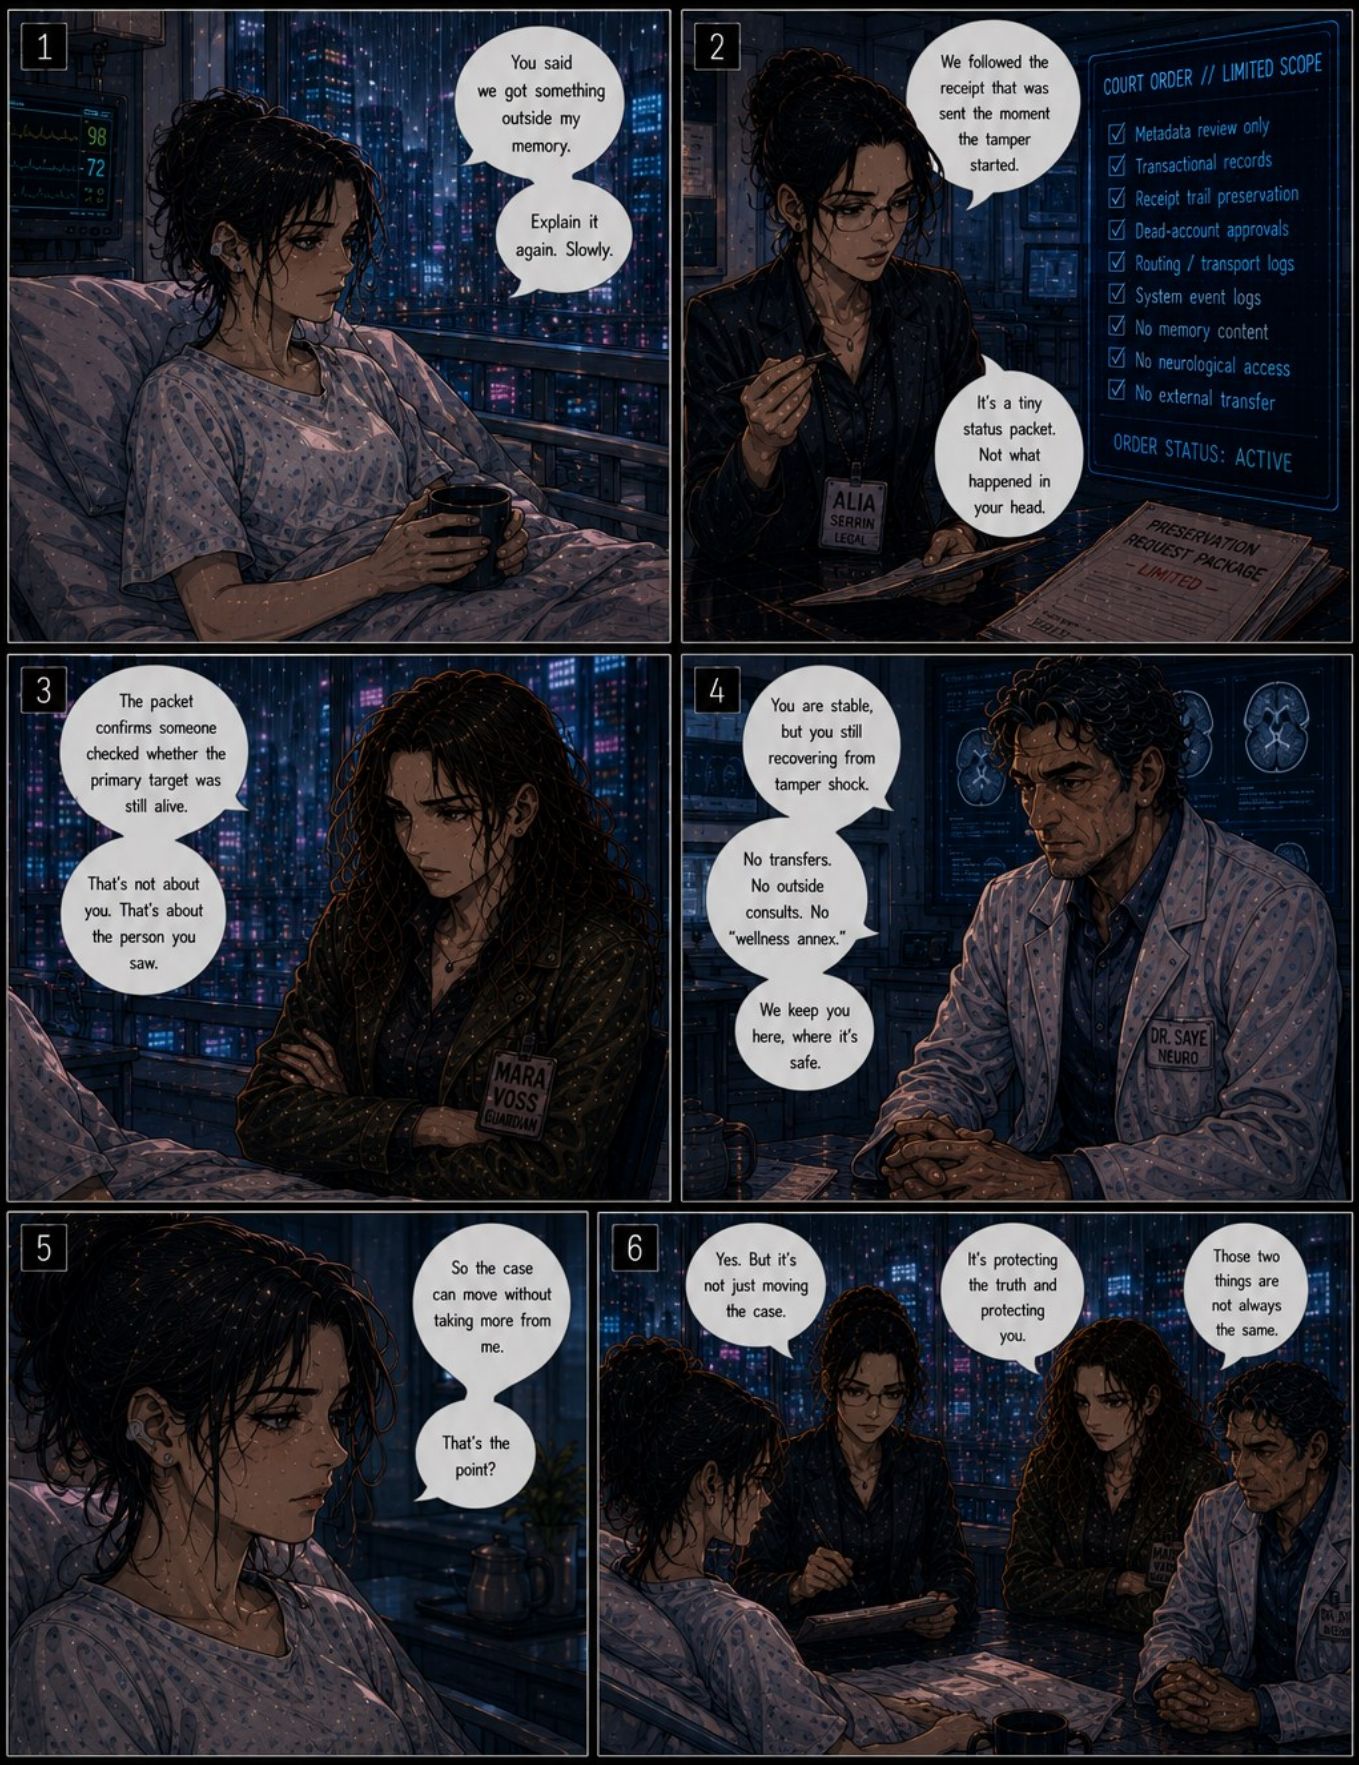

Every answer creates a new question.
Every question must follow the record.
The truth survives because we refuse to break the rules to find it.

NEXT STEP:
Continue receipt trail analysis. Await node preservation confirmations. Maintain witness protection. No action beyond court-approved scope.

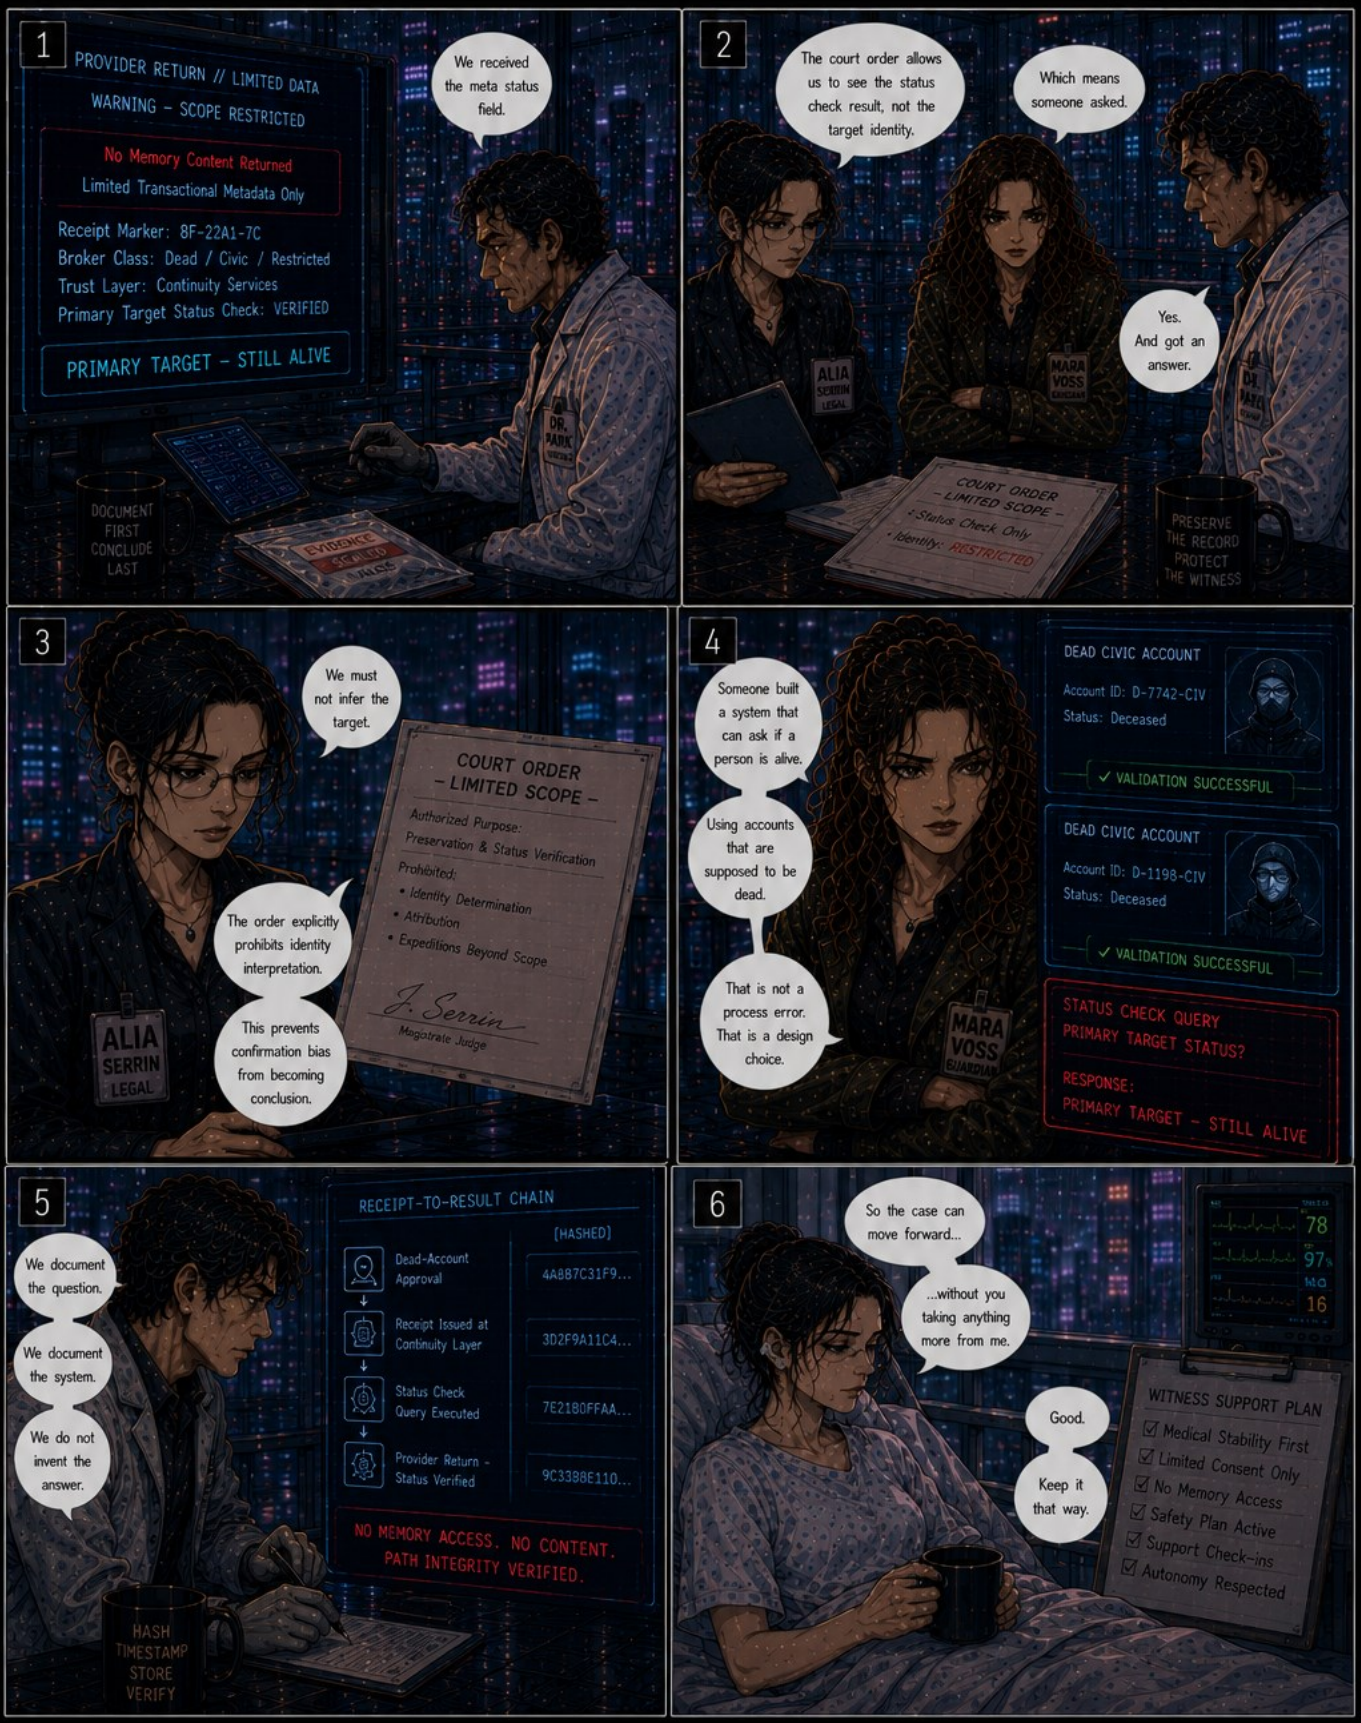

LIORA'S RIGHTS REMAIN PROTECTED

- ☑ Informed about scope before action.
- ☑ No access to memory content.
- ☑ No pressure to provide beyond consent.
- ☑ Medical safety comes first.

LIORA VENN WITNESS SUPPORT NOTE:

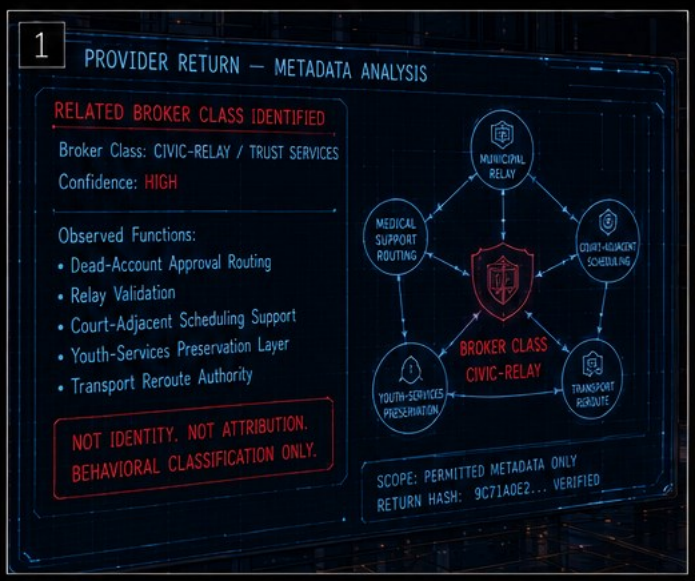

- Witness informed of metadata-only scope and legal boundaries.
- Witness expressed understanding of receipt trail and safety plan.
- Witness emphasized autonomy: "Do not make me brave because I'm useful."
- Consent status: LIMITED CONSENT REMAINS ACTIVE.

PERMITTED NEXT STEPS

- Continue receipt-trail analysis within authorized scope.
- Seek targeted preservation of relay infrastructure.
- Monitor dead-account activity for related status checks.
- Protect witness safety—no transfers, no external consults.
- Review any newly returned metadata under active order:

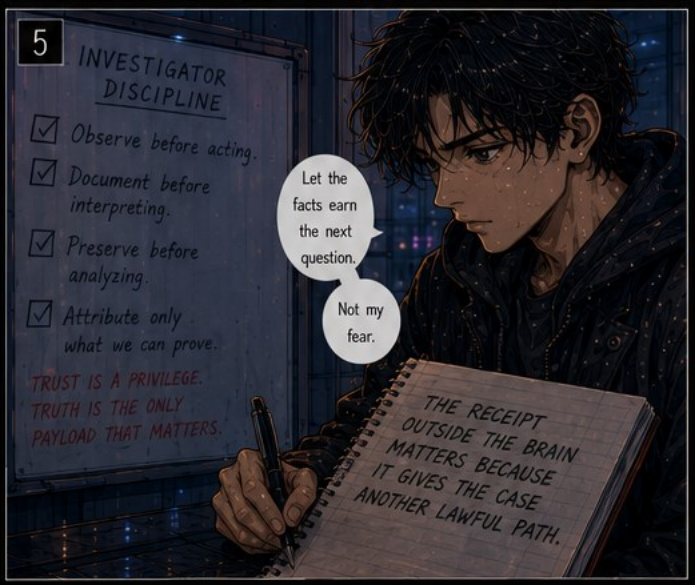

THE RECORD SURVIVES PEOPLE WHO DO NOT DESERVE FORGIVENESS.
WE FOLLOW IT.

CONTINUITY CHECK — NEW CONNECTION ESTABLISHED

- ☑ Provider return confirms related broker class.
- ☑ No identity. No attribution. Behavioral classification only.
- ☑ Lawful path established outside the witness.
- ☑ Nico remains restricted. He observes, writes, and waits.
- ☑ Witness safety and chain of custody remain intact.
- ☑ The receipt trail now allows forward movement.

NEXT:
Correlate provider metadata and seek confirmations without crossing the order.

INTEGRITY OVER CONVENIENCE
The truth survived because someone wrote down where it broke.

WITNESS PROTECTION REMAINS ACTIVE

- [x] Consent is limited. Respect it.
- [x] Safety is the priority. Always.
- [x] Liora chooses the pace.
- [x] The investigation stays outside her body.
- [ ] The record protects her boundaries.

INVESTIGATOR REMINDER

- [ ] People are not evidence.
- [x] Limits are not obstacles.
- [x] Care is not weakness.
- [x] Documentation protects them.
- [ ] Ethics protect the truth.

THE PRINCIPLE

Evidence serves justice.
People deserve dignity.
The truth survives
when both are protected.

THE PROTOCOL REMAINS.

- ☑ Authority before action.
- ☑ Scope before tools.
- ☑ Document every step.
- ☑ Protect the witness.
- ☑ Preserve the truth.

WHY IT MATTERS.

- ☑ Metadata can mislead.
- ☑ Inference is not evidence.
- ☑ Identity is protected.
- ☑ Limits are not obstacles.
- ☑ Integrity is the method.

THE PROMISE.

We do not chase answers.
We earn them.
The truth survives

OPERATION LESSONS

MISTAKES MADE — WHAT WE DID TO CORRECT THEM

TRUTH SURVIVES THROUGH PROCEDURE.
WE EARN IT.
WE PROTECT IT.

#	MISTAKE MADE	WHAT IT CAUSED	WHAT WAS DONE TO CORRECT IT	LESSON LOCKED
1	Nico connected unsupported hardware without authorization.	Triggered the sidecar tamper response and contributed to the cache purge.	The adapter was seized, photographed, bagged, logged, and added as a restricted evidence node. Nico wrote a formal statement against himself.	No shortcuts. Authority before action. Scope before tools.
2	Nico let grief drive an investigative decision.	Park's possible route label became emotionally magnetic, causing Nico to reach for a conclusion.	Mara removed emotional justification from the event and made Nico name the action as his own choice.	Grief is not authority.
3	The scene was partially disturbed before full forensic control.	The analog recorder and apartment scene became harder to interpret cleanly.	Kato documented what had been touched, moved, or observed before formal processing.	Bad memory documented honestly is better than good memory invented later.
4	Liora was almost treated like a data source instead of a person.	The investigation risked turning consent into a checkbox.	Alia limited scope, used paper consent, separated forgiveness from permission, and kept Liora's health first.	The victim comes before the lead.
5	The sidecar data was overvalued as if it were a confession.	The team risked confusing device output with truth.	Kato repeatedly framed the sidecar as partial, fragile, scoped, and non-conclusive.	A device record is not a witness. Interpretation comes last.
6	The partial Park identifier tempted premature attribution.	Nico nearly treated "P-G-L / FORM—" as a conclusion.	Kato forced the correct wording: "partial identifier," not conclusion.	Labels are claims until the record supports them.
7	The forensic cradle delay created pressure to improvise.	Delay made the shortcut feel justified.	The team later used the approved cradle, documented the failed recovery, and preserved what remained.	Waiting for the right tool is part of the investigation.
8	The cache was destroyed before full recovery.	Park's twelve seconds, route fragment, and memory content were lost.	The team documented the loss, preserved wipe logs, and shifted to provider-side receipt evidence.	A damaged case is not a dead case.
9	The open-book symbol triggered Mara's memory before proof existed.	The team risked naming Children of Glass too early.	Kato documented only visual similarity and restricted the node until corroborated.	Remembering is not attribution.
10	The Halcyon records looked too clean.	A clean export could have been mistaken for proof of innocence.	Kato reviewed the export in a quarantined environment, Mara found the missing thirty-one-second window, and Alia kept the language precise.	Clean records can still be staged. Verify the gaps.
11	Dead-account infrastructure could be mistaken for a person.	The team risked blaming a named dead approver instead of identifying a trust-abuse system.	They classified it as dead-account behavior, not identity or attribution.	Dead account does not mean dead actor.
12	The team could have chased the final "PRIMARY TARGET — STILL ALIVE" phrase too aggressively.	The phrase could falsely name Nico, Liora, or someone else without proof.	Alia enforced the boundary: target identity not established, relevance pending. Nico asked for permitted wording.	Do not chase answers. Earn them.
13	Nico's apology originally centered himself.	It risked asking Liora to comfort the person who harmed her.	Alia and Mara forced him to rewrite it until it named the harm without asking for forgiveness.	An apology is not a petition for comfort.
14	The investigation risked hiding its own internal failure.	Concealing Nico's action would poison the record and create defense risk.	The mistake was documented as evidence, reviewed, restricted, and added to the case map.	Documented damage limits the blast radius.
15	The team risked confusing movement with progress.	Fast action could have harmed Liora, broken scope, or damaged admissibility.	They narrowed court orders, preserved records, maintained chain of custody, and protected the witness.	Move carefully. Move together. Move lawfully.

RED — WHAT WENT WRONG

- Unauthorized access
- Emotional reasoning
- Premature attribution
- Disturbed scene
- Overreach risk

BLUE — WHAT CORRECTED IT

- Documentation
- Scope control
- Evidence logging
- Witness protection
- Court-limited provider return

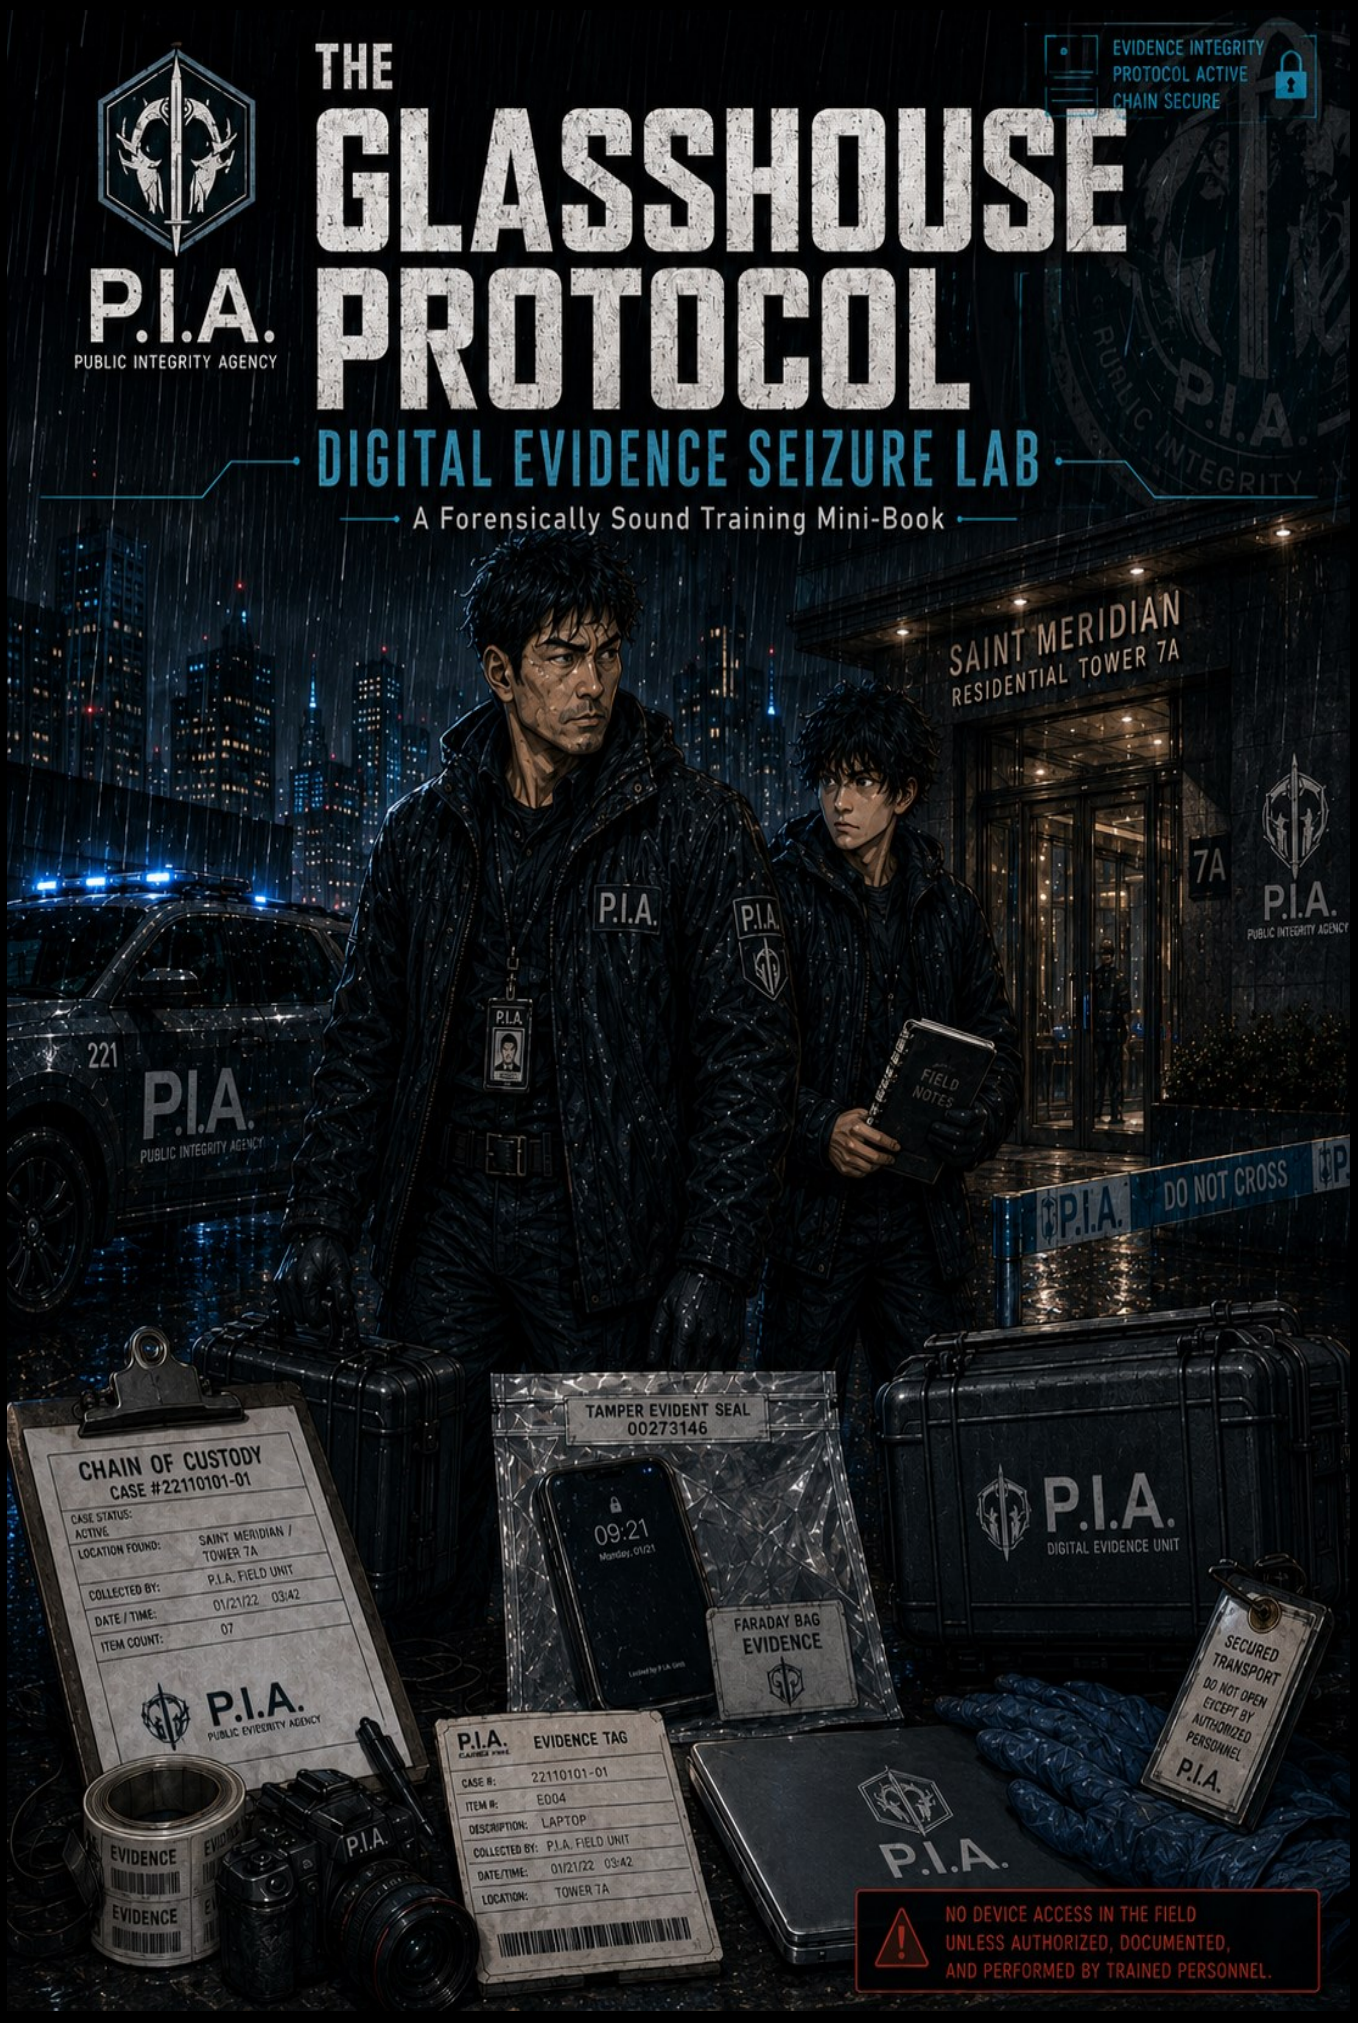

MAGENTA — WHAT SURVIVED

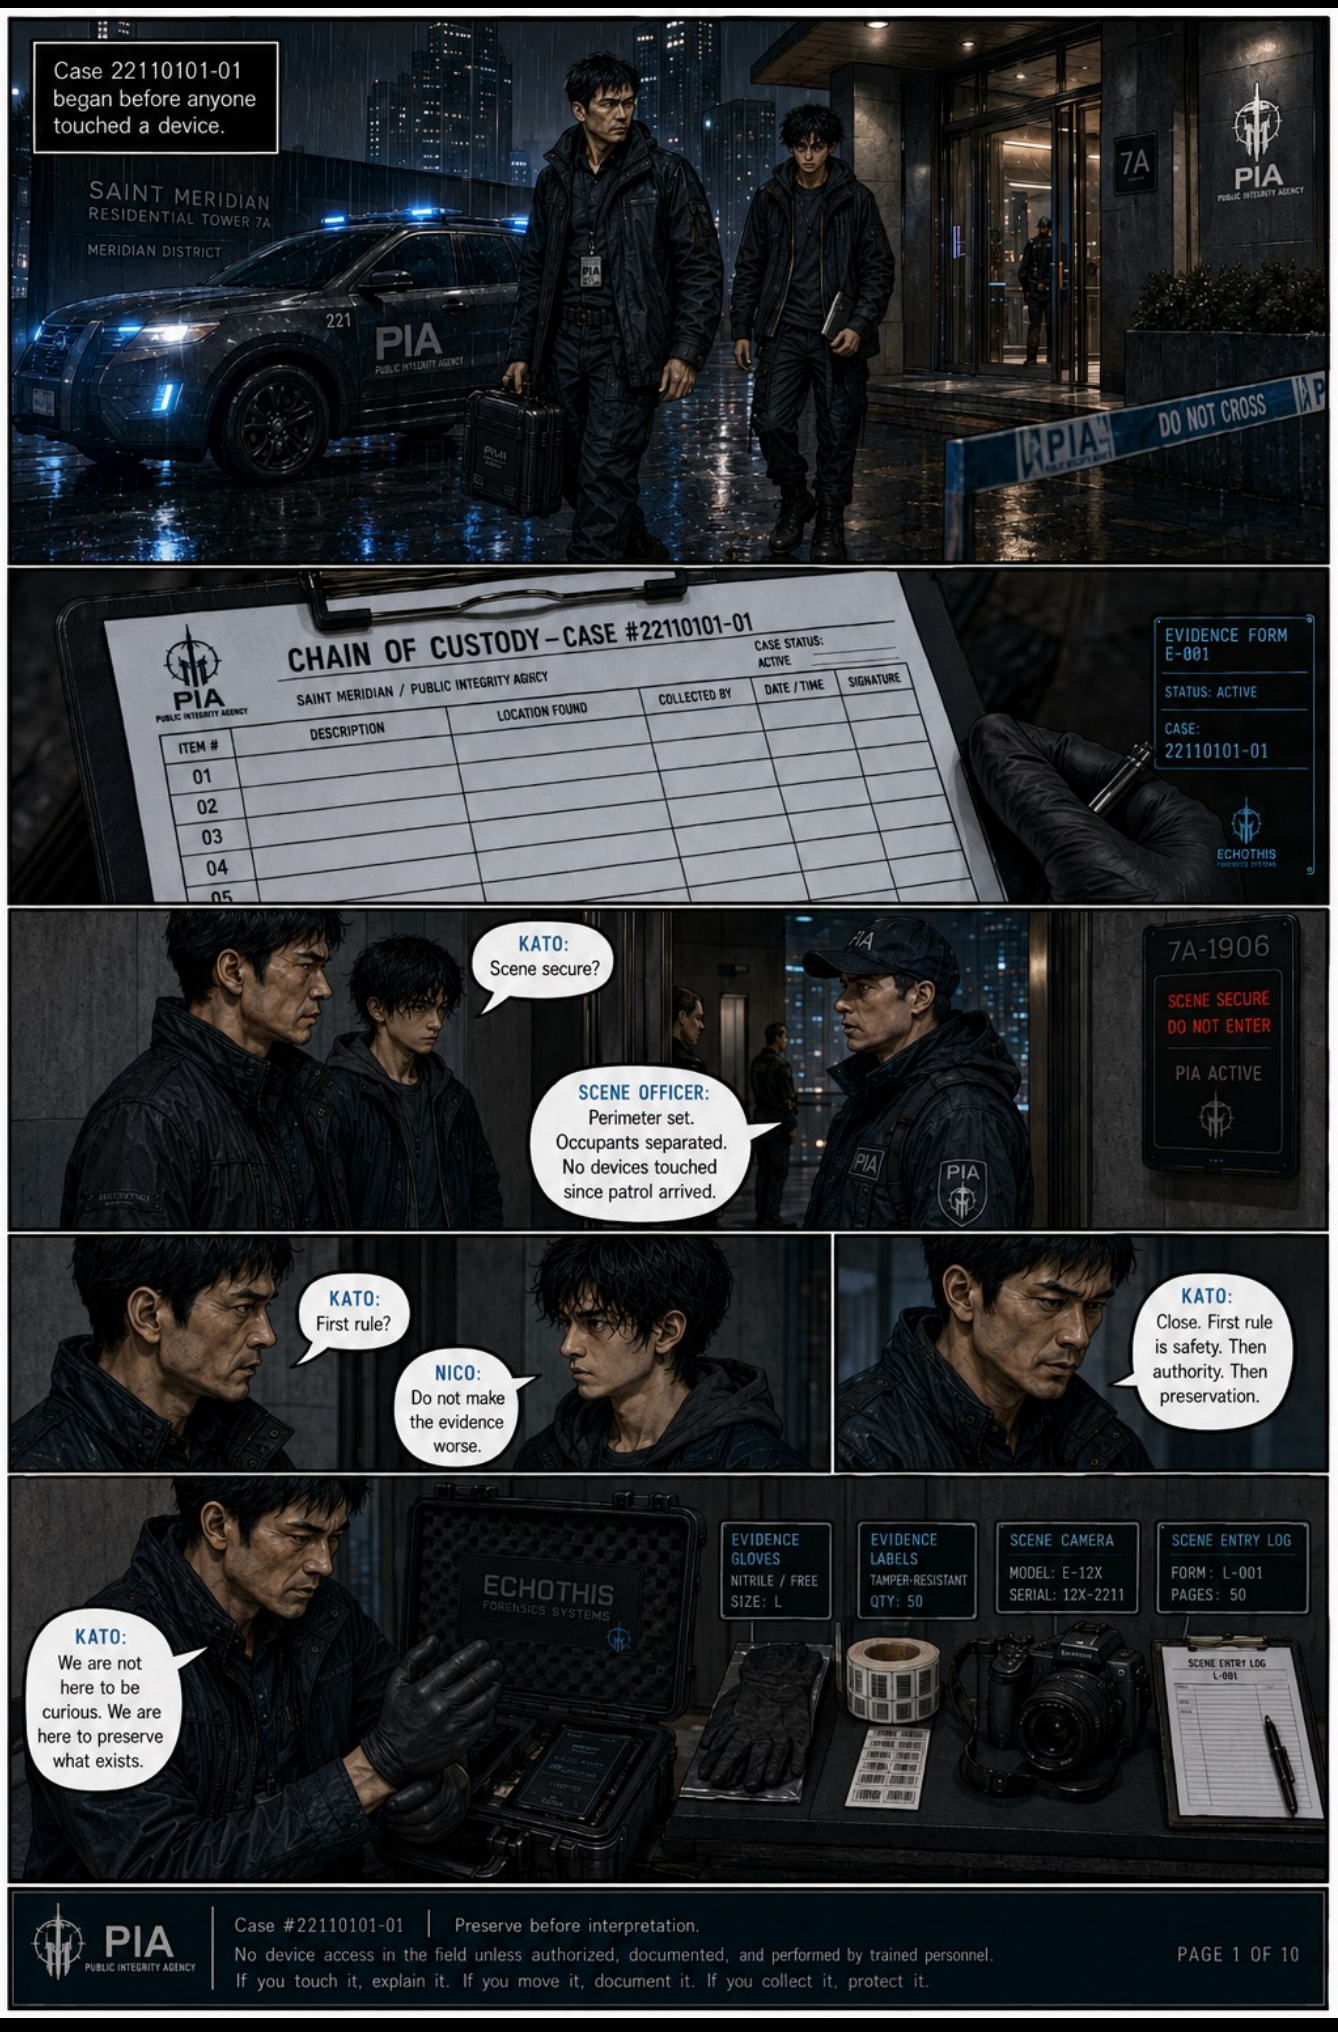

- Statements
- Scene records
- Wipe logs
- Adapter evidence
- Remote receipt
- Provider metadata
- Broker-class pattern

WHITE — WHAT THE OPERATION TAUGHT

- No shortcuts
- Document everything
- Protect the person
- Preserve the record
- Let the evidence speak last

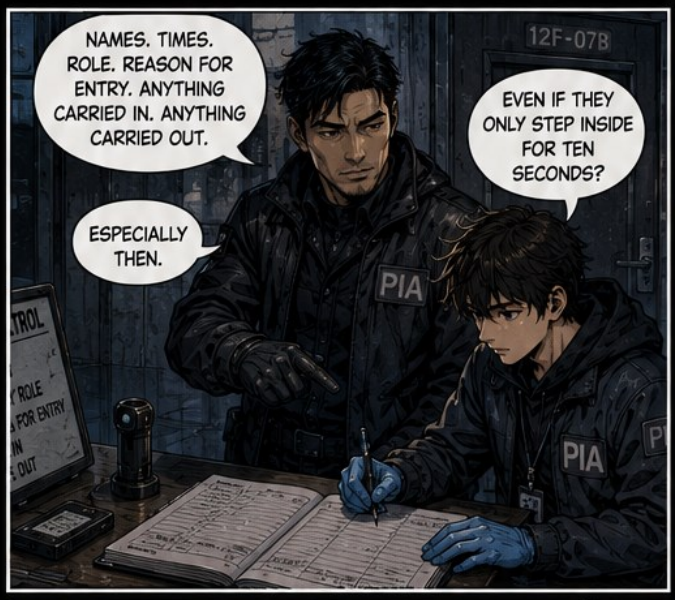

THE RECORD IS OUR SHIELD. THE TRUTH IS OUR MANDATE.
THE PEOPLE ARE OUR PRIORITY.

SUMMARY: A CLEAN SEIZURE PROTECTS THE TRUTH

CASE # 22110101-01

P.I.A.
DIGITAL EVIDENCE UNIT

FROM ARRIVAL TO HANDOFF — EVERY STEP MATTERS.

1 ARRIVAL ONSITE

- Confirm authority and safety.
- Establish roles and secure chain of custody.
- Prepare tools, labels, and scene-entry log.

2 SECURE THE SCENE

- Control access and log every entry.
- Prevent contamination.
- Do not touch any devices.

3 DOCUMENT BEFORE TOUCHING

- Take overall, mid-range, and close-up photos.
- Record device states, locations, and surroundings.
- Sketch scene layout.

4 IDENTIFY DIGITAL EVIDENCE

- Identify in-scope items only.
- Do not open, unlock, or explore.
- Assign unique item numbers.

5 ISOLATE THE PHONE WITHOUT EXPLORING

- Photograph and document state.
- Do not interact with the device.
- Place in tested Faraday bag.
- Seal, label, and record details.

6 LAPTOP POWER STATE & DECISION POINT

- Assess and document power state.
- Decide before acting; document decision and rationale.
- Preserve state; no field preview.
- Transport for controlled imaging.

7 TAG AND BAG THE LAPTOP & ACCESSORIES

- Photograph items and identifiers.
- Package laptop in padded container.
- Bag accessories separately.
- Label with item #, time, collector, location, and seal.

8 DOCUMENT RELATED ITEMS & SCENE CONTEXT

- Document network devices and cable paths.
- Photograph and collect notes or paper items.
- Respect scope; stop and ask before expanding.

9 CHAIN OF CUSTODY & FINAL WALKTHROUGH

- Reconcile all items and seals.
- Complete chain-of-custody entries.
- Conduct final walkthrough.
- Capture post-collection photos.

10 TRANSPORT & LAB HANDOFF

- Secure transport; no deviations.
- Lab intake verifies seals and completes custody.
- Analysis begins after imaging and validation.

EVIDENCE COLLECTED IN CASE 22110101-01

QUICK CHECKLIST

- SAFETY & AUTHORITY ✓ — Ensure safety. Verify authority. Define roles.
- SECURE THE SCENE ✓ — Control access. Log entries. Prevent contamination.
- DOCUMENT FIRST ✓ — Overall, mid, close-up photos. Record states and locations. Sketch layout.
- IDENTIFY ONLY ✓ — List in-scope items. No exploring. Assign item numbers.
- ISOLATE DEVICES ✓ — Document state. No interaction. Use Faraday for phones.
- PRESERVE STATE ✓ — Assess power state. Decide before action. Preserve; no preview.
- TAG & BAG ✓ — Bag items separately. Use correct packaging. Label and seal.
- CONTEXT ITEMS ✓ — Document network. Collect related paper. Stay within scope.
- CHAIN OF CUSTODY ✓ — Record all details. Verify seals. Final walkthrough.
- TRANSPORT & HANDOFF — Secure transport. Lab intake verification. Imaging before analysis.

⚠ NEVER

- Open devices or access contents.
- Unlock screens or enter codes.
- Click, type, or change settings.
- Connect to networks.
- Mix items in one bag.

REMEMBER

If you touch it, explain it.
If you move it, document it.
If you collect it, protect it.

THE GLASSHOUSE PROTOCOL – KEY PRINCIPLES

OBSERVE BEFORE ACTING
See everything. Change nothing until it is documented.

MINIMIZE INTERACTION
No unnecessary interaction means no accidental alteration.

MAINTAIN CHAIN OF CUSTODY
Every transfer is recorded. Every seal is verified.

DOCUMENT COMPLETELY
Photos, notes, sketches, and logs create the first and best copy.

ISOLATE & PROTECT
Prevent communication and data changes.

TRANSPORT SECURELY
Move directly, protect continuously, store securely.

PRESERVE INTEGRITY
Maintain original state, context, and order of discovery.

TAG & SEPARATE
Every item gets its own identity and its own package.
